Introduction / Introduzione

In 2016 from the idea of Dr Antonio G. Lauro the Contest was born and since the first edition, the competition was proclaimed by the EVOOWR (Extra Virgin Olive Oil World Ranking, an organization specialized in promoting the best EVOOs), among the top five international extra virgin olive oil contests and acknowledged first in Italy. The participation at the EVO IOOC Italy will give you the opportunity to gain nine valid points for the global ranking.

Il Concorso nasce nel 2016 da un'idea del Dottor Antonio G. Lauro e fin dalla prima edizione il Contest è stato inserito dal EVOOWR (Extra Virgin Olive Oil World Ranking, organizzazione specializzata nella promozione dei migliori EVOO), tra i primi cinque concorsi internazionali sull'olio extravergine di oliva e primo in Italia. La partecipazione all'EVO IOOC Italy darà la possibilità di guadagnare nove punti validi per la classifica mondiale.

EVO IOOC Guide Buyers Edition: 6th edition of our Guide.

The EVO IOOC Italy 2022 competition has just been finished, and our guide is now available on the market, as this is the sixth edition, an innovative publishing project conceived by the International Olive Oil Consultant Antonio G. Lauro for EVO IOOC Italy.

A guide, essential in its content and increasingly appreciated by the world of buyers, and at the same time very popular and requested by consumers and admirers of high quality extra virgin olive oil around the world. This editorial product, born with the ambitious intent to become a tool for dissemination, consultation and information, complete in all its aspects, but at the same time simple, streamlined and agile. Useful guide to “navigate” and discover within the pages all the EVOOs excellence of the 2021/2022, whether in the north or south of the world, with one common logical goal: the identification of the highest quality of EVOO.

Divided by hemisphere, country of production and based on the prizes obtained, the guide highlights, in the first part, all the overall winners of the categories Best in Class, Best of Country and Special Award. With a very rich second part where you can meet all the companies that have obtained a prestigious award in the EVO IOOC Italy. Easy to read, moving between Gold and Silver Medal, you will be directed to the individual company sheets showing the essential data of the company so you can be easily contacted.

EVO IOOC Guide Buyers Edition: 6a edizione della nostra Guida.

Si sono appena concluse le operazioni del concorso EVO IOOC Italy 2022, e la “tradizionale” guida è ora sul mercato. Si tratta della sesta edizione di un innovativo progetto editoriale realizzato dall'esperto Antonio G. Lauro per EVO IOOC Italy. Una guida essenziale nei contenuti e sempre più apprezzata dal mondo dei buyer, ed allo stesso tempo molto apprezzata e richiesta dai consumatori e dagli estimatori dell'olio extravergine di oliva di alta qualità in tutto il mondo. Un prodotto editoriale, nato con l'ambizioso intento di diventare uno strumento di divulgazione, consultazione e informazione, completo in tutti i suoi aspetti, ma allo stesso tempo semplice, snello e agile. Guida utile per “navigare” e scoprire all'interno delle pagine tutte le eccellenze degli oli EVO dell'annata olearia 2021/2022, sia nel nord che nel sud del mondo, con un unico logico obiettivo comune: l'individuazione della massima qualità degli extravergini.

Divisa per emisfero, paese di produzione e in base ai premi ottenuti, la guida evidenzia, nella prima parte, tutti i vincitori assoluti delle categorie Best in Class, Best of Country e Special Award. Con una ricchissima seconda parte dove si possono osservare tutte le aziende che hanno ottenuto un prestigioso riconoscimento nel concorso EVO IOOC Italy. Una guida di facile lettura che vi indirizzerà, passando dalle Gold Medal alle Silver Medals, alle singole schede aziendali che mostreranno tutti i dati essenziali dell'azienda, al fine di facilitarne le modalità di contatto.

The awards in detail

Today it is not surprising to find heavily olive-growing regions such as Italy, Greece, Spain, and Portugal on the highest steps of the podium, it should also not be surprising the umpteenth confirmation of countries that have only recently appeared in the exclusive world scenario of valuable extra virgin olive oil production.

New entries that bear the name of Oman, Turkey, Tunisia, Israel, Jordan, and Lebanon - in the old world - Brazil, Argentina, Chile, and Peru by right among the new frontiers from the southern hemisphere.

Thus, after seven editions of the competition, the territorial supremacies of world extra virgin olive oils are clearly defined.

Record to record, in the 2022 edition of EVO IOOC Italy, out of all the number of companies registered in the competition, as many as 354 with 736 products presented for tasting, in a year of redemption for world olive growing, proven by facts and certified by a number of awards assigned.

As said, surprising the number of samples in competition (736), divided between 643 EVOOs and 60 (flavoured) infused EVOOs. All this to testify the strong desire of the companies to restart. World olive oil companies, looking for an exclusive showcase for their products. EVOOs by 354 different companies based in 32 countries around the world and production headquarters in 26 states, divided between the Northern and Southern Hemisphere.

I Premi in dettaglio

Oggi non sorprende trovare sui gradini più alti del podio regioni fortemente olivicole come Italia, Grecia, Spagna e Portogallo, proprio come non deve più stupire nemmeno l'ennesima conferma di paesi che solo di recente sono apparsi nell'esclusivo scenario mondiale degli oli extravergine di oliva di pregio. New entry che portano il nome di Oman, Turchia, Tunisia, Israele, Giordania e Libano - nel vecchio mondo - Brasile, Argentina, Cile e Perù, entrate di diritto tra le nuove eccellenze dell'emisfero sud. Così, dopo sette edizioni del concorso, si sono chiaramente definiti i primati territoriali degli oli extravergini di oliva mondiali. Record da registrare, nell'edizione 2022 di EVO IOOC Italy, su tutti il numero di società iscritte al concorso, ben 354 con 736 prodotti presentati alle selezioni, in un'annata di riscatto per l'olivicultura mondiale, dimostrata dai fatti e certificata dal numero di riconoscimenti assegnati.

Come detto, sorprendente il numero di campioni in concorso (736), divisi tra 643 oli EVO e 60 oli aromatizzati. Il tutto a testimoniare la forte voglia di ripartire delle aziende olearie mondiali, alla ricerca di una vetrina esclusiva per i propri prodotti. Oli iscritti da 354 diverse aziende con sede in 32 paesi del mondo e sedi di produzione in 26 stati, divisi tra l'emisfero settentrionale e quello meridionale. Tra le produzioni olearie mondiali di pregio, divise per singole categorie e per emisfero di

10 pleasant sensations of high-quality EVOO

After more than twenty years dedicated to sensory analysis of virgin olive oils and spent tasting the excellence of olive oil from both “our” northern hemisphere, as from the “new” southern hemisphere, I try to answer a question asked by a young “colleague” little more than eleven years old.

The question is intriguing: “Antonio, tell me in a few words what are the 10 most beautiful sensations that can be found in a quality EVOO”.

I try to answer the learned colleague. Here are the 10 pleasant sensations you can (and should) find in extra virgin olive oil.

The tasting of olive oil, in its extra virgin category, can trigger pleasant sensations even to a neophyte. In fact, within the EVOO, you can find an infinite range of aromas and flavors, that we would never imagine and whose origin I try to explain.

The aromas and scents of EVOO depend on various factors, above all the variety of the olive, which inexorably characterizes the organoleptic profile of the olive oil being tasted.

Among other factors, we can mention the geographical region, climate, and soil where the plants are grown, agronomic factors (cultivation operations, fertilization,

10 gradevoli sensazioni dell’olio EVO di qualità

Dopo oltre vent’anni dedicati all’analisi sensoriale degli oli vergini di oliva e passati ad assaggiare le eccellenze olearie provenienti tanto dal “nostro” emisfero nord, quanto dal “nuovo” emisfero sud, provo a rispondere ad una domanda fattami da un giovane “collega” poco più che undicenne.

La domanda è intrigante: “Antonio, dimmi in poche parole quali sono le 10 più belle sensazioni che si possono trovare dentro un olio EVO di qualità”.

Provo a rispondere al dotto collega. Ecco le 10 gradevoli sensazioni che puoi (e che devi) trovare nell’olio extravergine di oliva.

L’assaggio di un olio di oliva, nella sua categoria extravergine, può scatenare piacevoli sensazioni anche ad un neofita. In effetti, all’interno degli oli EVO, si può trovare una gamma infinità di profumi e sapori, che mai immagineremmo e della cui origine provo a spiegare.

Gli aromi ed i profumi degli oli EVO dipendono da vari fattori, su tutti la varietà dell’oliva, che caratterizza inesorabilmente il profilo organolettico dell’olio in assaggio. Tra gli altri fattori possiamo menzionare la irrigation), the stage of ripeness of the olives, and the type of extraction and the olive mill used.

Perhaps not everyone knows that it is the mill itself, with healthy and fresh olives, that makes the difference, positively and unfortunately also negatively, on the final quality.

Let's try to understand what happens in the olive mill during the pressing and the extraction of oil from olives.

As mentioned, this is the right moment to "create" the aromas and flavors of an excellent EVOO.

Already during the crushing of the olives, and then during the phase of "malaxation" (slow stirring of the olive paste), a whole series of positive chemical reactions happen that lead to the "birth" of the aromas and flavors of the extra virgin olive oil. This is an "aromagenesis", possible thanks to a particular "benevolent" enzyme, which gives rise to the so-called "lipoxigenase cascade", thanks to which some polyunsaturated fatty acids are converted into smaller aromatic molecules.

Therefore, to find in the EVOO aromas reminiscent of a particular fruit or vegetables, does not indicate that the olive trees have grown in the vicinity of a vegetable garden or orchard, or that these vegetable essences have been introduced into the olive oil from outside.

But even flavors have a daddy. In fact, these are largely due to the presence in the olive oil of some antioxidant substances, such as polyphenols, belonging to a large family of natural compounds with important biological regione geografica, il clima ed il suolo dove vengono coltivate le piante, i fattori agronomici (operazioni colturali, fertilizzazione, irrigazione), lo stadio di maturazione delle olive e la tipologia di estrazione ed il frantoio usato. Forse non tutti sanno che è proprio il frantoio, a parità di olive sane e fresche, a fare la differenza, positivamente e, purtroppo anche negativamente, sulla qualità finale. Cerchiamo di capire cosa accade in frantoio durante la frangitura e l'estrazione dell'olio dalle olive.

Come detto è questo il momento giusto per "creare" gli aromi ed i sapori di un ottimo olio EVO. Già durante la frantumazione delle olive, e poi durante la fase di gramolazione (lento rimescolamento della pasta di olive), accadono tutta una serie di reazioni chimiche – positive – che portano a far "nascere" i profumi ed i sapori dell'olio. Si tratta di una "aromagenesi", possibile grazie ad un particolare enzima "benevolo", che da origine alla cosiddetta "cascate della lipossigenasi", grazie alla quale alcuni acidi grassi polinsaturi vengono convertiti in molecole aromatiche più piccole.

Quindi, trovare nell'olio EVO profumi che ricordano un particolare frutto o delle verdure, non sta ad indicare che gli olivi siano cresciuti in vicinanza di un orto o di un frutteto, o che queste essenze vegetali siano state introdotte nell'olio dall'esterno.

Even this class of compounds has a well-defined origin and their presence depends - as for aromatic compounds - on the geographical region, climate, soil, agronomic factors, olives, and the olive mill.

But what is a Polyphenol? We can safely call it the “Superman” of EVOO, it is very present in high-quality extra virgin olive oils just produced and it is responsible for the flavor of EVOO.

At this point, in order to satisfy the curiosity of our young friend, here is the list of the 10 pleasant sensations of quality EVOO.

A premise: some of these smells and tastes are surely familiar to you, others will positively surprise you.

1) Fruity (green or ripe olive). Yes, the scent of olive. On the other hand, we know that EVOO is an “olive juice”, so why should we be surprised to smell it in an extra virgin olive oil? Delicate or robust, it surprises and fascinates. But rest assured: all the EVOOs in the world are fruity!

2) Bitterness. Present in high-quality EVOO, it can easily be detected at the end of the tongue. A good Italian Moraiolo or Coratina envelops the palate with this sensation - reminiscent of chicory and artichoke - as well as olive oil of Cornicabra or Manzanilla sevillana (Spain) or Carolea (Italy). So look for it in an EVOO, this is also an indication of quality.

Ma anche i sapori hanno un papà. In effetti questi sono dovuti in larga parte alla presenza nell’olio di alcune sostanze antiossidanti, quali i polifenoli, appartenenti ad un’ampia famiglia di composti naturali dotati di importanti proprietà biologiche.

Anche questa classe di composti ha un’origine ben definita e la loro presenza dipende – come per i composti aromatici – dalla regione geografica, dal clima, dal suolo, da fattori agronomici, dalle olive e dal frantoio usato. Ma cos’è un Polifenolo? Possiamo tranquillamente chiamarlo il “Superman” dell’olio EVO, molto presente negli oli extravergine di oliva di alta qualità appena prodotto ed è responsabile del sapore dell’olio EVO.

A questo punto, per soddisfare la curiosità del giovane amico ecco l’elenco dei 10 sentori gradevoli dell’olio EVO di qualità.

Una premessa: alcuni di questi odori e sapori vi sono sicuramente familiari, altri vi sorprenderanno positivamente.

1) Fruttato (oliva verde o oliva matura). Sì, proprio il sentore di oliva. D’altro canto lo sappiamo che l’olio EVO è una “spremuta di olive”; quindi perché meravigliarsi di sentire questo odore in un olio? Delicato o intenso, sorprende ed affascina. Ma state tranquilli: tutti gli oli EVO del mondo sono fruttati!

3) Pungency. Tasting olive oil can sometimes be disorienting. Pungent? Why? The pungent (or spicy) sensation of EVOO is a sort of burning perception, due to the tactile stimulation of heat receptors present in the mucous membranes of the mouth. Therefore, realizing that our EVOO - in the mouth - tastes like a chili pepper or black pepper, typical perceptions of varieties such as Ottobratica, and Leccio del Corno (Italy), Picudo (Spain), and Memecik (Turkey), guarantees us that this olive oil is rich in important substances having a “nutraceutical” effect.

Besides these, which are also the three “basic” sensations common to all extra virgin olive oils and that both an expert taster and a consumer must necessarily find in a quality oil, there are others.

4) Tomato (green, ripe, leaf). The extra virgin olive oil is there, the scent of tomato is strong and clear, just a few aromatic herbs are missing and the salad is made! Yes, that’s right, a simple slice of bread with an excellent extra virgin olive oil from Spain (Picual), Syria (Nabali baladi), Italy (Grossa di Cassano or Nocellara del Belice or Tonda Iblea), will make our snack a very satisfying experience.

5) Almond (fresh or in shell, sweet or bitter). Gentlemen, here is the almond, in all its facets and declinations. It is the main sensation (after the fruitiness, clearly) of many Italian olive oils such as Casaliva, Coratina, and Frantoio or Picholine morocain.

2) Amaro. Presente negli oli EVO di alta qualità è facilmente individuabile sulla parte terminale della lingua. Un buon Moraiolo umbro o la Coratina di Puglia avvolgono il palato con questa sensazione – che ricorda la cicoria ed il carciofo - parimenti ad un olio di Cornicabra o di Manzanilla sevillana (Spagna) o una Carolea calabrese. Quindi cercatelo in un olio EVO, anche questo è indice di qualità.

3) Piccante. L’assaggio di un olio a volte può disorientare. Piccante? Perché? La sensazione piccante (o pungente) dell’olio EVO è una sorta di percezione di bruciore, dovuto alla stimolazione tattile dei recettori del calore presenti sulle mucose della bocca. Quindi accorgersi che il nostro olio EVO – in bocca - sa di peperoncino o di pepe nero, percezioni tipiche di varietà come l’Ottobratica (Calabria), il Leccio del Corno (Toscana), la Picudo (Spagna) e la Memecik (Turchia), ci garantisce che quest’olio sia ricco di importanti sostanze ad effetto “nutraceutico”.

Oltre a queste, che sono anche le tre sensazioni “basiche” comuni a tutti gli extravergine e che tanto un assaggiatore esperto quanto un consumatore deve necessariamente trovare in un olio di qualità, ve ne sono altre.

4) Pomodoro (verde, maturo, foglia). L’olio c’è, il sentore di pomodoro è forte è chiaro, manca giusto qualche erba aromatica è l’insalata è fatta! Sì, proprio così, una semplice

6) Grass (fresh or just cut). How many people have clear memories of walks in the countryside, among the fields, surrounded by a heady scent of fresh grass? I think everyone. This is an experience common to so many of us.

But finding these pleasant notes in a “premium” EVOO is also common. Just choose an extra virgin olive oil from the Itrana or Sperone di Gallo (Italy), Halkidiki (Greece), Hojiblanca (Spain), or Chetoui (Tunisia) varieties, and the experience is assured.

7) Olive leaf. To remember it and link it to a direct experience, I invite you to rub an olive leaf in your hands. The olfactory impact is immediately vegetal, one that is not easily forgotten.

8) Floral. That’s right, flowers! There are many varieties of olive trees in the world that can boast such olfactory notes. Just look for them in an Italian Taggiasca, a Lebanese Souri, a Greek Manaki, or an Istrian Buza. These perceptions give complexity to the bouquet of an EVOO.

9) Spices and aromatic herbs. Basil, thyme, chamomile, oregano, rosemary, cinnamon, sage, mint, or other unsuspected herbs. The list is long, which is precisely why I prefer to talk generically about “spicy/aromatic notes”. A Spanish Arbequina, just like an Ortice or Bosana from Italy or a Barnea from Israel, surprises the palate for the generous scents they give off.

fetta di pane con un ottimo extravergine spagnolo (Picual), siriano (Nabali baladi) calabrese (Grossa di Cassano) o siciliano (Nocellara del Belice, Tonda iblea), faranno della nostra merenda un’esperienza molto appagante.

5) Mandorla (fresca o in guscio, dolce o amara). Signori ecco la mandorla, in tutte le sue sfaccettature e declinazioni. E’ la sensazione principale (dopo il fruttato, chiaramente) di molti oli italiani come ad esempio quelli di Casaliva, Coratina e Frantoio o la Picholine marocchain.

6) Erba (fresca o appena falciata). Quanti conservano chiaro il ricordo di passeggiate in campagna, tra i campi, avvolti da un inebriante sentore di erbe fresche? Credo tutti. Questa è un’esperienza comune a tanti di noi. Ma trovare queste note gradevoli in un olio EVO “premium” è altresì comune. Basta scegliere un olio di varietà Itrana (Lazio), Sperone di Gallo (Molise), Halkidiki (Grecia), Hojiblanca (Spagna) o Chetoui (Tunisia) e l’esperienza è assicurata.

7) Foglia di olivo. Per ricordarla e legarla ad una esperienza diretta vi invito a sfregare, tra le mani, una foglia di olivo. L’impatto olfattivo è subito vegetale, di quelli che non si dimentica facilmente.

8) Floreale. Esatto, fiori! Sono tante le varietà di olivo mondiali che si possono fregiare di tali note olfattive.

10) Fruit. Apple, banana, or exotic fruit (mango, guava, and avocado) in an extra virgin olive oil? Yes, they are frequent in EVOOs coming from the southern hemisphere or from other regions of the world and complete the bouquet of many olive oils such as the Greek variety Koroneiki, the Italian Biancolilla or Mignola, Manzanilla and Arbosana (Spain), the Turkish Ayvalik or the Argentinian Arauco.

This is just a short and concise list that includes the 10 most common sensations of an EVOO but at the same time an experiential path, made of smell and taste, that will make you fall even more in love with the green gold - the extra virgin olive oil - prince of the table and heritage of humanity.

At the same time, I would like to challenge you: what sensations can you recognize in your extra virgin olive oil?

Basta cercarle in una Taggiasca ligure, una Sourì libanese, una Manaki greca od in una Buza istriana. Queste percezioni, sono quelle che conferiscono complessità al bouquet di un olio EVO.

9) Spezie ed erbe aromatiche. Basilico, timo, camomilla, origano, rosmarino, cannella, salvia, menta o altre erbe insospettabili. La lista è lunga, e proprio per questo preferisco parlare genericamente di “note speziate/ aromatiche”. Un’Arbequina spagnola, come un’Ortice dalla Campania, una Bosana sarda o la Barnea d’Israele, sorprendono all’assaggio per i generosi sentori che sprigionano.

10) Frutta. La mela, la banana o la frutta esotica (mango, guava ed avocado) in un olio EVO? Sì, sono frequenti in oli provenienti dall’emisfero sud o da altre regioni del mondo e completano il bouquet di molti oli come la varietà greca Koroneiki, la Biancolilla siciliana, la Mignola (Marche), la Manzanilla e l’Arbosana (Spagna), l’Ayvalik turca o l’Arauco argentino.

Questo è solo un breve e sintetico elenco che racchiude le 10 sensazioni più comuni di un olio EVO, ma allo stesso tempo un percorso esperienziale, fatto di olfatto e gusto, che vi faranno innamorare ancor di più dell’oro verde – l’olio extravergine di oliva – principe della tavola e patrimonio dell’umanità. Nel contempo vi lancio una sfida: voi, quali sensazioni riuscite a riconoscere nel vostro olio extravergine di oliva?

Italia Olivicola is the most important organization of olive producers in Italy with over 250,000 members, widespread in 15 Italian regions for a total of 56 producer organizations (P.O.) on the national territory.

The organization is working on building a modern, sustainable and competitive olive oil supply chain that aims, in a unitary manner, at improving the quality of the Italian olive oil sector, to guarantee a fair income for olive producers by implementing programs financed by the European Union for the quality improvement of the olive products, the protection of the environment and its biodiversity, the introduction of innovative processes, such as the use of the BlockChain model on the Algorand platform in the case of traceability, and its certification.

Italia Olivicola has set up and implemented a certified traceability system, with 29 Hellenic olive cooperatives coordinated and represented by the company Agron, and organises and implements specific promotional events in non-producing countries to transfer correct information about olive oil and disseminate its culture. At the same time, it carries out information initiatives also addressed within its network of companies, developed with the aim of extending to all members the certified sustainability introduced in some organizations or more generally growth programs, scientific dissemination and dissemination of production best practices, as is the case with the webinars and conferences promoted by its Centro Studi.
